Gary:

Tell you what.  You can move next door to me, sure.  Very happy to have you.  I'll be moving myself and my pet skunks into your home soon after.  I'll eat your food, drink your drinks, use your furnishings and make love to your wife.  And by the way.  I'm sure that you wouldn't mind me helping myself to what's in your wallet as well.  And since I don't drive a car I'll be sure to sell yours quickly so that I can afford cab fare.  After all.  This is SOCIETY, and we have to work TOGETHER.

That last paragraph was pretty darned ridiculous, wasn't it? I'd say that it was a pretty good example of the sort of farcical posts that I've been seeing in response to my statement in favor of NQ0I and individualism.  I won't explain my statement again here, because that's been done in two other articles.  I'm not sure what the problem is here, but how about discussing this issue like adults for a change?

Heyden's surprise should be quite stunning.

But what about your meditation room as needed by all yogi's of the followers of Sauron... All walls, ceiling and floor covered with compact fluorescent lamps, all with electronic ballasts, just a small dias suspended in the centre on which the meditator kneels and spins the ceremonial prayer wheel designed by wimshirst (sp?). Even with 10kW of RF generated light, the true believer needs to meditate for 18 hours per day in order to attain true enlightenment.

So do I, Black Sabbath, Led Zepplin, Metallica, even some old Blind Faith on occasion. I also stay up all night working in the metal shop. My neighbors love me.
